"Palm Tree Lady" becomes the first 3D-printed sculpture fully produced in Saudi Arabia, standing as a testament to the evolving landscape of contemporary art.

Unveiled at the duo exhibition "Ethereal Echoes" featuring Marina Fedorova's and Yousef Akbar's pieces of art and haute couture, "Palm Tree Lady" sculpture not only embodies the edge of technological innovation but also symbolizes fertility, oasis, and the maternal power of love and care.

Inspired by the cultural richness of Al-Ahsa Oasis located in Saudi Arabia, Marina Fedorova's "Palm Tree Lady" is a nod to tradition with a futuristic twist. The sculpture features a graceful female figure draped in a flowing long dress embodying the fluidity of water and the refreshing energy of an oasis. Symbolizing unity and the strong ties of the people to the region, the meticulously designed palm leaves, each representing specific trees indigenous to the region, reflect the cultural legacy of Al-Ahsa.

Going beyond the traditional art, "Palm Tree Lady" offers an exclusive augmented reality (AR) experience, elevating viewer interaction to a whole new level. This new addition to the Cosmodreams project showcases a harmonious blend of creativity and technological ingenuity, setting a fresh standard for immersive art experiences.

The sculpture stands not just as an artistic marvel but as a symbol of innovation, reflecting the dynamic landscape of contemporary art in Saudi Arabia.
